

I want only this part to be protected as a 'graphic image design'. This is to ensure that no problems arise even if other parts are plagiarized ♥

The icon I designed features a distinctive "mask" part.

It's break time now, so I'll help you.

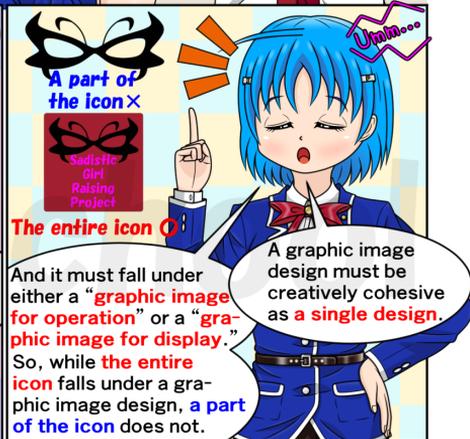

I remembered something when I saw Kurika's being punished. It's a smartphone video game app that I was involved in producing ☆

A partial design O

Please refrain from using smartphone during class. Achieving that is difficult with a standard design, but it is possible with a "partial design".

Well, is it not possible to protect only a part of the image?

A part of the icon X

The entire icon O

And it must fall under either a "graphic image for operation" or a "graphic image for display." So, while the entire icon falls under a graphic image design, a part of the icon does not.

A graphic image design must be creatively cohesive as a single design.

Cell division has just begun

We're doing a test play.

Amazingly, in our game, players raise a fertilized egg into their favorite heroine.

The reason your game is unprecedented is because it's disgusting!

Don't underestimate me, I'm a professional otaku!

It's an unprecedented game where you raise a heroine from zero!!

Well, your game where you raise a heroine are commonplace. That's not like you.

~Day45~ Sadistic Girl Raising Project